Opportunity Overview

This business sale represents an extremely rare opportunity for a buyer to acquire a long-established UK headquartered manufacturer of inflation systems technologies and marine apparel, which is a market leader in the maritime safety sector. A business steeped in sea safety history and recognised like no other for its core product offering. Its past and present innovations have well and truly established it as a globally acknowledged specialist with an unparalleled reputation for the protection of life.

As well as its maritime heritage, the business manufactures safety products for the leisure marine sector. It also has a truly unique position in the trade supply chain as an original equipment manufacturer. It designs and manufactures components and solutions used in products for general commercial use and in mission critical safety systems for the emergency services, military, and aviation sectors. As would be expected for this type of business, an experienced and skilled workforce, traditional production equipment alongside high-tech machinery and stringent quality control processes, are at the forefront of its operations.

The company owns and occupies exceptionally well organised and fully fitted out freehold premises which has benefitted recently from additional investment, further streamlining workflow, and increasing capacity. This is a business which whilst very established is always evolving along with developments in technology and client demand. It presents an exciting growth opportunity for a new owner and is one which our clients are offering for sale to realise its assured value. All handover support and training will be provided to ensure a successful transition of ownership. This is a rare acquisition opportunity supported by a timely and genuine retirement sale.
